

Historic, Archive Document

Do not assume content reflects current scientific knowledge, policies, or practices.

Russell Gardens

NINE SOLID ACRES HEMEROCALLIS

Spring, Texas

LIBRARY
REC'D
AUG 30 1946
U. S. Department of Agriculture

YOU MAY HAVE ANY TEN FROM THIS LIST FOR $4.00 OR THE ENTIRE LIST OF EIGHTEEN FOR $7.00, SENT POSTPAID

AMARYLLIS — This lovely $4\frac{1}{2}$ inch flower was introduced by Betscher. Its color is of the softest gold with thick firm leathery petals. This is a shade of yellow not to be overlooked in making your selection. A "honey" if there ever was one. Height 3 feet. May and June.

BIJOU — This is one of the loveliest little things that grow. It's one of the best of the many hybrids selected from the many flowered species multiflora. The blooms are small, but extremely profuse. The ground colors are a shade of tangerine strongly overcast with a rich red with a darker mid-zone. It will be a long time before this one is beat in its class. Height $2\frac{1}{2}$ feet. May and June.

CINNABAR — A lovely flower of cadmium yellow slightly overcast with the richest cinnamon. Blooms are about 4 inches across. Height $2\frac{1}{2}$ feet. May and June.

CITY OF AMARILLO — This lovely flower, we think, was named properly. The Texas city of Amarillo has taken this Daylily as its official city flower. The members of the Amarillo Garden Club asked me to pick one of the most profuse bloomers that they might take as their city flower. This particular variety, we believe, is a glorious tribute. Its lovely pale gold, fully open, 5 inch flower actually has three times more blooms on it than any of the hundreds of varieties of yellow Daylilies that we grow. Height 3 feet. April and May.

DAUNTLESS — This huge lovely 5 inch fully open flower with the finest of texture is of a gorgeous shade of buff yellow with a slight overcast of brown for its eye-zone and one of the best of the eastern introductions for a cut flower. Extremely profuse bloomer and one that I believe will be with us a long time. Height 3 ft. April and May.

GLADIATOR — Imagine a glorious display in your gardens of this lovely variety. Tangerine in color with a lovely sheen in this flower that is hard to describe. It is a color far removed perhaps than any you have ever seen and surely one of the most profuse bloomers grown. Height 3 feet. April and May.

HYPERION — This variety has perhaps been more publicized than any of the lemons on the market today. It's a huge 5 inch clear pale lemon blooming here for us in May and June. Height $2\frac{1}{2}$ feet.

IRIS PERRY — This lovely variety comes to us from Europe and is a beautiful chrome slightly overcast cinnamon. It is really a color hard to describe. Its flowers are about $4\frac{1}{2}$ to 5 inches. Height 3 feet. May and June.

J. T. RUSSELL — I could not have put this variety in at this price were it not for the fact that it grows and multiplies faster than many and have an excellent stock at the present time. It has a huge 6 inch bloom. The petals are lemon with an intense cinnamon red eye zone. The sepals are a clear lemon. Height 3 feet. May and June. This one will be listed in our new catalogue at $2.00 each.

LINDA — This lovely combination of pastel colors is written up in this month's Better Homes and Gardens as one of the real "honeys". It has a color combination of copper, rose, and brown. Blooms 4 inches across. April and May.

MARDI GRAS — This lovely flower is a cinnamon-red with a deep, wide red eye. Its petals and sepals are an even color. Its throat is green. Its $4\frac{1}{2}$ inch blooms open full. A most unusual flower and a profuse bloomer. Height $2\frac{1}{2}$ feet. May and June.

MARGAURITE PALMER — This beautiful flower was named for the garden editor of the Houston Press. Its bloom is a lovely well-rounded thing with wide overlapping petals and is an unusual shade. While the color is very intense, it is not as dark a red as some, but has the loveliest cardinal red eye zone. Its sepals are yellow overcast with the same rich red. Its throat is yellow. A real "prize". A lovely fast growing Daylily and a most prolific bloomer. $4\frac{1}{2}$ inch bloom. Height $2\frac{1}{2}$ feet. May and June.

MIKADO — Don't be misled in this ungodly name. I didn't name it. It was introduced by Dr. Stout at the New York Botanical Gardens and is still, in my opinion, a lovely thing to have in anybody's garden, especially with the lovely shades of yellows. This color is the deepest of yellow with a purple eye zone. 4 inch bloom. Height 3 feet. May and June.

MOONGATE — This is one of my introductions offered for the first time never before seen in print. A lovely canary yellow of the firmest texture. Five inch blooms with wide twisted petals, the sepals recurve, and it has a lovely green throat. Height $3\frac{1}{2}$ feet. April and May.

MRS. A. H. AUSTIN — In many years of working with Daylilies, I have seen dozens of varieties of Daylilies sold by the different nurseries that was supposed to be this variety. There seems to have been quite a confusion as to the true stock of this one, but the true stock we carry of this variety is one of the loveliest things you have ever seen. It's a big 5 inch open flower of rich buttercup yellow with slightly ruffled petals. Height 3 feet. April and May.

MRS. CHARLES URSCHER — Did you ever see a two-tone lemon lily? This lovely full bloom is about 4 inches and its color is the palest lemon with a sheen showing quite distinctly another shade, yet staying in the lemon class. We introduced this lily several years ago, but had to take it off the market to replenish our stock. We now have a sufficient amount to offer again. Height 3 feet. May and June.

MT. VERNON — This lovely full and wide flower is lemon, deeply overcast coral-rose, multiplies fast, blooms profusely, and is an excellent keeper as a cut flower. If you want something really different in Daylilies, here it is. Blooms 5 inches across. Height $2\frac{1}{2}$ feet. April, May, and June.

QUEEN OF GONZALES — This is a solid self. The whole flower is the deepest yellow, and the wide overlapping petals open full. The 6 inch flower remains open longer after being cut than any I have ever seen, and the plant is almost a constant bloomer. One of the earliest of the giants to bloom. Height 3 feet. April, May, and again in mid-summer.

Plant Hemerocallis Daylilies once and have them always

